Abstract: This article discusses the importance of learning foreign languages in human life. In today's fast-paced world, knowing a foreign language is extremely important, because every sphere of life, business, education relies on a foreign language.

Keywords: foreign language, distance learning, social networks, modern technology, language specialist.

Learning a foreign language is very important for everyone today. The world is becoming more and more globalized, and bilingualism is not a passing fad but a need of the time. Learning a foreign language is a life skill for learning how to truly communicate and connect with others. Why should we learn foreign languages? Today we will discuss about this topic. I will write about why you should learn a foreign language.

1. Learning a foreign language makes your brain grow. Research shows cognitive benefits of learning another language, regardless of age. These studies show that bilingual people have bigger brains, better memories, greater creativity, better problem-solving skills, and more. These advantages make it easier not only to learn more languages, but to learn them all. The ability to quickly switch between tasks is especially important in today's busy multitasking world. Bilinguals can switch between tasks much more quickly than their monolingual counterparts while completing many other tasks.

2. Learning a foreign language makes traveling cheaper and easier. Of course, many people travel consciously. Knowing the language is very useful when traveling to a foreign country. I can easily describe what I want to eat when I go out to eat. ask the locals for directions. You can request it without any problem. It will be higher if you add a guide.

3. If you learn a foreign language, the world of job hunting will expand. It's no secret that learning a foreign language improves your job prospects. With more companies than ever before operating in multiple countries, sometimes dozens, around the world, he must employ employees who can understand at least one foreign language. you can't do that. Even for a small local business, the ability to speak a second language can set you apart from other potential employers.

4. Make new friends while learning a foreign language. Meeting new interesting people and developing lifelong friendships is certainly a goal worth pursuing, and learning another language is a sure way to speed up the process. It helps you express your feelings and desires, connect with people around you, and build meaningful relationships.

5. Learning a foreign language broadens your mind. Learning a foreign language and immersing yourself in a whole new culture and worldview is the surest way to become an open-minded, understanding, tolerant and absolutely valuable person. And understanding where you and others come from is an eye-opening experience.

6. Learning a foreign language helps you understand your own language and culture better. Learning a foreign language puts you in a paradoxical state and allows you to better understand your native language and culture. This is one of the most unexpected benefits of learning a foreign language. You will gain a better understanding of not only cultural conventions, but also the grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation patterns of your native language.

This probably explains the improvement in listening, reading, and writing skills that a foreign language gives formerly monolinguals. The benefits of learning a foreign language make you successful in nearly every aspect of your life. have the ability Learning a foreign language is very important and there are countless reasons for learning a foreign language. Learning a foreign language helps break down language barriers and bring people together on a deeper level of mutual understanding. Now let's talk about why learning a language is important for non-language teachers. Especially these days, teachers are required to have knowledge of English. why do you need this? I would like to share my thoughts on this. As we all know, English is recognized as the language of the world. She is one of the two young people learning English. At least I'm interested in this language.

Also, knowing English is a great opportunity for teachers to broaden their knowledge. The secret is that most scientific papers are written in English. Feel free to read the original. Another important aspect is that knowledge of English will make it easier for you to use today's latest technology and social networks. English is also called the language of technology. Almost all social networks are easily covered in English. Distance learning has only just begun during the well-known pandemic. This created difficulties for many teachers. Not all teachers know the latest techniques and how to use social networks. Knowledge of English puts an end to these problems.

In summary, knowledge of English is the key to new opportunities for industry representatives. Knowing your field opens one door. Knowing English opens another door. In fact, knowing one language can open doors to the whole world.
